

Critical Thinking Questions (CTQs)
PSYC 10: Introduction to Psychology
M, W 9:45-11:10 a.m. (40362)—SS 214
Spring 2018

- Chapter 1: What is the difference between correlation and cause and effect?
- Chapter 11: How does extreme stress differ from everyday stress? List three sources of extreme stress, and an example of what would be extreme stress for “you.”
- Chapter 4: Define alcoholic myopia and what major problem it could lead to.
- Chapter 3: Explain the process and parts of the body involved in smell.
- Chapter 8: What are the similarities and differences between primary and secondary drives? Give an example of each. What might happen if a person believes that a secondary drive is a primary drive?
- Chapter 2: What is the difference between a dominant gene and a recessive gene?
- Chapter 5: What are the similarities between classical and operant conditioning?
- Chapter 6: What is the difference between rote rehearsal and elaborative rehearsal? Which one works best for you and why?
- Chapter 7: Define the compensatory model. How would you apply it in deciding whether to transfer to a 4-year university and which professor to take for a class?
- Chapter 9: Define identity crisis and of the four outcomes of this process, where do you see yourself and why?
- Chapter 10: Define compensation and what weakness or issue about you that you’re trying to overcome.
- Chapter 12: What is the primary difference between psychosomatic illness and somatic symptom and related disorders? Which one of the two suggests a more serious psychological problem?
- Chapter 13: What is aversive conditioning? Give an example of how you would use aversive to overcome a bad habit in your life.
- Chapter 14: What factors make a great leader? Of the factors you listed, which two of them do you most need to be the best leader you can be?